Pride, Spirit, Enthusiasm . . . They are often overlooked during the course of a student's busy day.

Most of us are too busy complaining about our work load, the cafeteria food, the weather in Peoria, or the price of tuition and some are still worried about last month's phone bill. Sometimes, we're just too busy to look. Yet with 1986 have come some very obvious changes in our campus environment and one of those positive changes is student attitude. It is evident in the concerned faces of those solemnly watching their nation take another step forward. It is clearly seen in the eyes of the fans at the Civic Center after a one second win and it is seen in the eyes of the faculty as they watch a student receive his or her diploma.

The Spirit of the individuals on this campus is never dying. Oh, it can be overshadowed occasionally with daily worries but it is easily rekindled as one dons the traditional red and white for a fieldhouse pep rally. The growth processes continue as each one of us constructs our goals and plans for our futures. We have witnessed the joy of our accomplishments and paid the price for our mistakes: we have learned and one of the most important skills Bradley has taught us is how to learn. The experiences provided both academically and socially have given us the ability to think and to appreciate another's opinion. It is through that maturity that we can begin to understand the world in which we live.

Suddenly, our parents seem to have gained a tremendous amount of knowledge since that first day that they helped us move our lives into a dorm room. We speak with them now on a higher level for we no longer see them just as parents but also as friends and we can now appreciate the magnitude of what they have done for us.

We realize that anything can happen whether it be joining that Greek house we weren't sure about, or changing our major for the second time. We are a generation of action. The various aids for famine relief organized this year have proved this beyond a doubt. Even this campus is alert to the misfortunes of others. Student Senate's "Skip a Meal" raised nearly $700 to help poverty stricken Peorians and aid famine relief in Africa. "Rock Alike", organized by various campus organizations, raised over $5,000 to aid Multiple Sclerosis research. Spirit and enthusiasm channeled so as to help others is a fantastic attitude in which to be proud and Bradley has shown that that spirit is contagious.

Campus enthusiasm had been at an all time high this year. Our Bradley Braves have inspired the student body, faculty and the Peoria community with their superior basketball performance. The "Cinderella team of 1986" won the MVC title with a remarkable 31 - 2 season record. Pride, spirit, and enthusiasm — we have it all. This is Bradley University 1986.

Prologue

"Be patient till the last."

To Mrs. Lydia Bradley, our revered founder, we are proud and happy to dedicate this first Bradley Annual

Members of the faculty, school mates, and friends, hear us for our cause, and be silent that you may hear; believe us for our honor, and have respect for our honour, that you may believe all that we may tell you; censure us with what wisdom you may have, and awake your senses that you may the better perceive and understand our deep wit. If there be anything in this book to which some one of you may take offense, to that person we say that it is not that we love you less, but that our desire to fill up blank space is more. As you love us, we jolly you; as you are good-natured, we impose upon you; as you are wise and learned, we honour you; but as you are conceited, we roast you. There is jollying for your love, laughter for your laughter, honour for your wisdom, and death (by roasting) for your conceit. Who is there so rude that would criticise this, our first attempt? If any, let him judge not that he be not judged. Who is there so vile as not to purchase this book? If any we will forthwith present it to him. We would offend none; we have done no more to you than you would have done to us.

With this we depart.

MEETINGS are announced every other week, but occur once a quarter, being postponed on account of the absence of important members, such as the officers. But when a party has at last been decided upon, it is indeed a beautiful sight to see the social lights of B. P. I. gathering from all directions, to spend one short evening (the lights are out at eleven) enjoying the games arranged by the versatile entertainment committee, such as hunting peanuts, up Jenkins, fortune-telling, brilliant conversation, and the guessing game as to whether the orchestra is playing a waltz or a two-step. The Treasurer is looking for a better position; the Club doesn't even keep him in pocket money. Since it was found necessary to collect dues from the faculty members the representation from that body has rapidly diminished. The Vice-President's position is merely nominal, because when the President is absent the Club has not the heart to hold meetings. The Secretary reports the proceedings at the meetings, and after every party prepares an itemized list of the articles lost and broken in the scrimmage for refreshments. The Club is hardly living up to its motto, but it promises more eating, less drinking and more marrying another year. Long may it live and prosper.

"Living in America . . ." by Cathy Schmalzer

city living. The Sears Tower and the St. Louis Gateway Arch are not only national landmarks but, more importantly, symbols and connections for those who spend so much time away from home. Being a student a Bradley offers experiences that are vital to the growth processes of us all. But no matter how fun the parties or how interesting and challenging the classes, all students eagerly await the scheduled arrival of Fall Break and Spring Break so that they may return home.

GLORY DAYS!

February of 1986 saw one of the best-attended Homecomings to hit the Hilltop in years. All organizations were invited to take part in a week full of activities designed to promote school spirit, competition, fun, and most of all, tradition - a return to "Glory Days."

An obstacle course in the ballroom kicked off the week, with Theta Chi collecting the spirit points for first place. The Singles Dorm Council's colorful banner was judged the best by a panel of faculty members in the "Glory Days" banner contest. Delta Upsilon was victorious in the Trivial Pursuit tournament with a twist: all "pie-piece" questions dealt with Bradley trivia.

The spirit week excitement accelerated with the return of the traditional skits, performed on Wednesday night. Theta Chi's skit, a medley of familiar tunes with new lyrics, took the prize. The same fraternity won Gamesfest, described by ACBU's Homecoming coordinator Angelina Muskin as an athletic event for the terminally funny.

Almost a thousand spirited Braves fans attended the Friday night pep rally. The next morning, organizations entered their floats and cars in the parade to the Civic Center. The float that won the judges' approval was made by Delta Zeta and Theta Chi.

The Braves defeated Wichita State 74-64 that afternoon, at which game the winners of the week were announced. Jim Les of Delta Upsilon and Terri Jackson of Williams Hall were crowned king and queen. Theta Chi won the spirit points competition, with Delta Upsilon and Gamma Phi Beta placing second and third.

Six hundred students and alumni attended the Homecoming dance at the Pere Marquette, featuring disc jockey TNT, to top off a week that reminded all of us of our pride in Bradley and its traditions.

Something for Everyone

Getting involved! School is more than just classes and "hanging around," as the second annual Activities Fair proved. Many of Bradley's countless clubs and organizations took part in the fair at the beginning of the fall semester, filling the student center ballroom with pamphlets, posters, photo albums and students eager to learn about their options. Representatives from various clubs were present to encourage students to take part in the activities. The students had the opportunity to ask questions about each club and begin deciding how to spend their free time: ACBU?? Intramurals? Religious organizations? Groups for minorities? Publications? Musical or service organizations?

There were so many groups that one freshman suggested that the first week of school was already too busy and confusing without the fair. "I did find out what was available, though, and that was good. I liked the free promotional stuff from Dave & Emie's and Domino's." Visitors left the fair looking forward to the activities ahead of them for the school year and, in many cases, wishing there was time to do it all.

A Night of Excellence

On September 26, 1985, Bradley University's students, staff, faculty and friends celebrated Founders Day with an "Evening of Excellence." The evening introduced a multi-million dollar fundraiser, The Campaign for Bradley. David E. Connor made the introductory remarks and emcee was Frank Bussone.

Entertainment for the capacity crowd at the Civic Center Theatre was provided by the Bradley Theatre who performed selections from "Anything Goes." The audience was also captivated by a dramatic reading by Greg Dolf, the Bradley String Quartet and the Chorale. Dr. Ed Kaizer, a pianist and member of the faculty performed a piece by Chopin. The audience then listened to Lewis J. Burger, the National Campaign Chairman. Mr. Burger revealed the plans for campus renovation, acquisition of new equipment and an endowment to provide scholarship opportunities. Bradley will continue to strive for "Excellence today and tomorrow".

When at Bradley . . .

"When at Bradley . . . Do as the Greeks Do!!!" was the theme of Greek Week this year. Greek Week is a week in which the sororities and fraternities get together to demonstrate their unity and to celebrate the joy of being Greek. The week ran from Sunday, September 22, to the following Sunday. The calendar of events for the week follows. On Sunday, September 22, the opening ceremonies and the Greek Honors Banquet were held. The Pan-Fra sing took place in Olin Quad on Monday and decorated banners that were hung in the yards of the various houses were hung on Tuesday. Thursday was T-Shirt day and also Green night at the Lucky Lady. The preliminary relay races and the Marathon race were also held on Thursday. Friday was Greek letter day and house skits were performed in Olin Quad. The Greek Games were held on Saturday and the week ended with Grand Chapter on Sunday, September 29.

One of the highlights of the week was the Greek Games which featured such events as chariot races and a jello eating contest. Delta Upsilon fraternity and Sigma Delta Tau sorority were the comprehensive winners of the games.

The final event of the week which is known as the Grand Chapter acknowledged those houses and individuals who achieved academic excellence in the previous year. The sorority with the highest GPA was Pi Beta Phi and the fraternity with the highest overall GPA was Alpha Kappa Psi. Greek Week was a hectic fun-filled week which gave the sororities and fraternities a chance to show their unity and to celebrate the opportunities that Greek life gives them.

Founder's Day

This year, Bradley University students, alumni, faculty and administration celebrate the 89th Founder's Day. It was 89 years ago that Mrs. Lydia Moss Bradley saw great hopes for the future when Bradley Polytechnic Institute was officially dedicated to her deceased husband and six children on October 8, 1897.

Founder's Day is celebrated the Wednesday that falls closest to the 10th of October because the original day of dedication was a Wednesday. It is a day to not only reflect on Bradley's founder, but also to recognize the talented alumni and faculty of Bradley University.

Various awards and honors were given to faculty and alumni. Some of those who were recognized are: Dr. Merrill Foster, professor of geology, received the Samuel Rothberg Professional Excellence Award, Dr. Robert C.

Scott from the department of economics received the Putnam Award, and Dr. John C. Meyer of the philosophy and religious studies department received the Francis C. Mergen Memorial Award for Public Service. Among those recognized as outstanding alumni: Marty Ryan, senior producer of the NBC "Today Show", and Harold A. "Pete" Vonachen and Dick Kay were co-winners of the Distinguished Alumnus Award. Vonachen is president of Vonachen's Junction, Inc. and is involved in various other businesses. Kay is an award-winning political editor and commentator for NBC and WMAQ-TV in Chicago.

It's Halloween . . .

October could be a rather dreary month if it weren't for Halloween. While some people think that costumes and candy are just for children, many Bradley students would disagree.

A quick stroll down a dorm floor and it's obvious that Halloween is for big kids, too. Orange and black streamers decorated T.V. lounges, hallways and doors. The aroma of hot apple cider and baked pumpkin seeds also filled some of the hallways.

Ghosts, vampires, skeletons, princesses and killer bees were all seen roaming the campus. Dorms sponsored parties in their T.V. lounges and cafeterias. Some complete with prizes for best costume and bobbing for apples. Pumpkin carving parties were also very popular, especially among the fraternities and their little sisters.

Some Bradley Students took advantage of the day to help some younger children have some fun. Members of Delta Tau Delta and Gamma Phi Beta took over the Student Center Ballroom and filled it with games and prizes for area kids. Fun for all!

Parents' Weekend

Bradley Dads were in the spotlight the weekend of October 19-20 at the 56th Annual Parent's Weekend. The Bradley University Parents' Association, Undergraduate Association and Activities Council sponsored the event.

The busy weekend began with a Continental Breakfast on Saturday morning, followed by the unique sounds of the Symphonic Winds/Jazz Band Concerts. Later on in the afternoon, families had the opportunity to see "The Passion of Dracula" put on by the Bradley Theatre. The weekend came to a close on Sunday at the casual Farewell Brunch where parents could get a bite to eat before departing from the University.

This fall, the winner of the Dad-of-the-Year Award was William "Rob" Roberts, a Bradley alum and a member of Sigma Nu Fraternity. Mr. Roberts has two children currently attending Bradley University. His son, Peter, recently pledged Sigma Nu and his daughter, Susan, who submitted the application for the award, is a member of Gamma Phi Beta sorority.

CWA

Bradley's Council for Womens Awareness' main objective is to present the issues and problems faced by women today to the Bradley campus. This year CWA focused much of its attention on providing education about birth control and sexual harassment to the students on campus. The Council presented a speaker from Peoria's Planned Parenthood to speak about birth control and venereal disease.

Another informative speaker, Viviane Nicholas, gave a lecture entitled, "Dictatorship and Repression in Haiti: One Woman's Personal Experience", and a roundtable discussion, "Women and the Curriculum" was also presented to students.

CWA gives students a chance to learn more about women's issues and some of the problems faced by women. The Council always needs members to be a part of its organization and any male or female is invited to join.

Members of CWA participated in Peoria's "Take Back the Night" walk which advocated the right of women to feel safe at night. Photos by Mark Richey.

Donahue

On September 11th Dean King, Director of Residential Life and Student Judicial System, had the honor and the exasperation to appear on Donahue and address the attitudes, values, and morals of fraternity members on campuses. Also on the panel was Andrew Merton, professor and author of the magazine article "Return to Brotherhood", Lucy Elridge, graduate of Hampton College, and Scott Hughes, 1985 Bradley graduate and Sigma Nu's Man of the Year.

The panel discussed problems faced within the fraternity system citing various incidents of violence and chauvinism towards women. One side presented fraternities as the breeding grounds for this harassment. Merton's article stated, "Fraternities are sporting clubs, and their game is women." King presented the other side of fraternity life. He stated, "The fraternity instills values in its members — self values, values with each other (honesty, integrity, justice) and trust in 'their God'." King also stressed that those fraternities guilty of offenses are "atypical" and should be closed. Both Merton and King called for reform rather than abolishment.

King said he felt the experience was frustrating because they did not have an adequate amount of time to state their case and, because of audience involvement, it was impossible to carry out logical thoughts to full conclusions. King said that the most important objective was their actions and that they did not embarrass themselves or the University while attempting to state their position.

Positive outcomes from King's appearance on Donahue were the establishment of chapter coordinators who meet with King weekly to discuss strengths and weaknesses within their individual fraternities. The National Interfraternity Council has also established a commission on values and ethics within the fraternity movement, of which, King is a member.

Phi Tau 500

The First Annual Phi Tau 500 Bicycle Race was held on October 21, 1985. The Gamma Mu Chapter of the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity organized the race to help raise money for the American Cancer Society. The race was composed of two heats in which bikers were entered by teams with each team required to finish fifty laps. Carlos Zuluaga and his partner, Jerry Lis won the men's competition. The Bradley Chapter of the Alpha Chi Omega sorority held its First Annual Golf Tournament on October 12, 1985 at Bradley Park. The tournament was organized to raise money for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. Competition was open to everyone in Peoria and the cloudy overcast didn't stop anyone from joining in on the fun. # Making The Connection

by Wendy Hammerschmidt

In the fall of '86 Bradley introduced its new touch-tone telephone registration system. It was a revolutionary idea and Bradley would be the third to adapt the concept alongside Brigham Young and Georgia State.

The system stressed convenience and efficiency. No more pre-registration frustration. Students were now able to register from dorm room, home, campus office or even a pay phone. Tone activated the computer when proper identification was punched in. Greeted by a computer's voice, students were guided through the registration process.

As with all new innovations, the touch-tone system had its first-run tangle of problems. The main complaint from students was that they were waiting just as long to register, the only difference was that they were waiting in their rooms rather than in the Student Center. "The problem was a system overload," said Ruth Jass, Registrar. "12,000 calls were trying to get through to the computer - that's about three calls per student." The eight lines used in the system just could not handle the incoming calls.

Consequently, changes have been made: 4 more lines have been added; new hardware was bought to speed up computer response; and registration days have been extended from 12-15. Since the main problem was busy lines, adjustments to the system focused on spreading out the traffic pattern of student calls and providing more times available to register.

Mike Hannon clutches his phone and registration book as he tries to get through to the computer.

Lisa Vitale

"I think as students gain the experience of using the system, the process will run much smoother," said Jass. "Students will have confidence in the computer and will not need to make that second call."

"So You Want To Be A Star?"

Almost 400 spectators packed the student center ballroom to see the ACBU's biggest Talent Night in six years. Featured performers included rock groups, jugglers, singers, break dancers and comedians. Many of the acts proved themselves genuinely talented despite technical difficulties and problems with crowd control.

entertainers were Bob Cielsa, Elvis impersonator, a rap group called "Rock Berry and Funky Fresh," juggler Bill Triebold, and comedian Pete Corica.

ACBU gave all of the thirteen featured acts a chance to showcase their hidden talents, and the evening was a success.

The participants competed for prizes donated by a variety of Peoria stores. First place in the competition went to Paul Brettner's juggling act, "The Amazing Brettner." The other top

Christmas Break

With the rigor of term papers and final exams a thing of the past, students' thoughts turned to fun, snow and the long awaited Christmas Break. December 18 marked the last day of exams and with that students had packed their bags and began leaving Bradley to enjoy the holidays. While many people relaxed and enjoyed the break from classrooms and books at home, others chose to do a little traveling. With the help of ACBU, a group of sixteen Bradley students enjoyed their vacation in Steamboat Springs, Colorado. The bus ride was long, but definitely worth it. Both snow and fun were abundant and even the beginners were ready to hit the slopes upon their arrival in Steamboat Springs. The resort was kept busy with the hustle and bustle of holiday vacationers. The shops and lodges were also as full of people as the ski slopes were . . . a great way to spend Christmas break!

Campus Carnival

George and Jane Jetson, Popeye and Olive Oyl, Superman and Lois Lane along with a host of other characters roamed Northwoods Mall as part of the Campus Carnival festivities. "Animation Fascination" was the theme for the week and it was played to the hilt.

The week was highlighted with various activities including penny voting for the characters who were sponsored by the various organizations. A spectacular performance was also given by the Bradley Gospel Choir at Northwoods Mall.

Some of the other highlights of Campus Carnival came just in time for Siblings Weekend, including game booths throughout the mall. Students and their visiting siblings had a chance to try their luck at the games. Clowns roamed the area with helium balloons and buttons promoting "Animation Fascination."

For those still looking for other entertainment, ACBU also sponsored a special showing of E.T. Saturday night students and siblings were kept busy at the Dance-a-Thon at the Garrett Center.

Siblings' Weekend

This year about 200 brothers and sisters of Bradley University students came to Peoria for the 11th annual Siblings' Weekend.

The Activities Council sponsored the event which was the weekend of February 28, to March 2nd. This year the theme was "Siblings' Take Bradley."

Starting Friday the siblings had a lot of fun activities to take part in, like seeing the movie "E.T." or trying out their luck at Casino Night.

On Saturday, there was volleyball and an obstacle course in Haussler Hall, and a cartoon festival at the Garrett Center. Campus Carnival was also going on that same weekend, so siblings had the opportunity to visit Northwoods Mall for some excitement. There were clowns and games and a lot more. There was plenty to do for the siblings and the weekend went well.

The Interdorm Council at Bradley University consists of about four representatives from each dormitory on campus. IDC sponsors many events for the campus and at the same time allows a channel of communication to exist between each of the dorms.

The 1985-86 year was a busy one for IDC. Many of the successful events included "Dinner's On Us", a Cubs park trip, Movie of the Month, a CPR certification class was held.

IDC also does a lot of work other than social events for the campus. A newsletter goes out to every building and every room. It consists of a calendar of events and accomplishments the Council has made.

This year IDC participated in two conventions that were a part of the state-wide Illinois Residence Hall Organization. At one of the conventions IDC won the Best Program of the Month award for their "Dinner's on Us" held in October.

Because of their hard work and dedication, IDC had a very successful year in providing social and educational programs for the Bradley campus.

A touch of home and a reminder of traditions - those were some of the outcomes of this year's Latino Week. The week was co-sponsored by the Student Activities Office and included a variety of speakers.

Chilean poet, Marjorie Agosin began the week by reciting some of her poems and translating them for her audience. Michael McConnell came to speak to the Latino students on the Sanctuary Movement. There was also a special showing of a movie based on the book 100 Years of Solitude by Gabriel Marquez.

To help bring the week to a close, Carlos Franco and Gerardo Resnikowdsi helped entertain their fellow students at the Garret Center. The pair performed a variety of Spanish music on guitar.

As the curtain opened to reveal the elaborate stage the audience knew they were in for a treat. "Anything Goes" was performed on the stage of the Hartman Center by a very energetic and talented cast. The show was highlighted with rigorous dance sequences throughout. Two of the principal roles were played by Julie Carlson and Greg Lahman. Dick Marriott who directed the musical chose "Anything Goes" as his final show at Bradley.

Under the direction of William J. Langley, Jr., the Bradley University Theatre presented "The Passion of Dracula" by Bob Hall and David Richmond.

Set in England in the autumn of 1921, the majority of the play took place in the study of Dr. Seward's home. It was there that Seward and Professor Vanhelsing discovered the truth about the Court.

The play revolved around the Count's endless attempts to make Wilhelmina Murray fall in love with him and eventually become his bride. After some close calls the Count is finally put to his death with a wooden stake by the Professor.

Through the use of special effects and notable acting talents, the mysterious life of Count Dracula was excellently portrayed. Photos by: Paul McCann. Director

God asks Noah to build an ark, he floats around for 40 days with all the animals, and then the first rainbow appears - simple, right? But in Bradley University Theatre's production of "Two By Two," based on Clifford Odets' The Flowering Peach, the audience was treated to a number of plot complications. Just what might have happened on that ark?

In Peter Stone's interpretation of the Biblical tale, Noah dealt with his son Japheth's doubts of a vengeful God and his opinion that the ark needed a rudder. When the rains came to flood the evil world, the family forced him onto the boat and asked a girl named Goldie to come along and marry him. (After all, they were meant to go "Two By Two.") But Japheth loved his sister-in-law Rachel. Fortunately, Goldie and Rachel's husband Ham also fell in love while waiting for the flood waters to recede.

The play closed with all of the family members one year older and wiser. "Two By Two" encouraged audiences to see Noah's family as human beings, not as fairy tale characters or models of perfection. It is safe to say that Peter Stone and songwriters Martin Charnin and Richard Rogers took some liberties with the facts of this ancient story to spice it up a bit, but their musical did succeed in allowing the cast to bring these characters to life for two weekends.

M'nake Me An Offer "The Original Toga Party" is an adaptation of the 2nd Century B.C. comedy, "The Menæchmi" by Plautus.

The actors in the play are four Bradley students and one Bradley graduate who portray The Luigi Riccoboni Classical Acting Troupe. The real members who make up the troupe are internationally well known for their interpretations of the world's greatest plays.

The play is about a set of twin brothers who were separated at birth and have journeyed far to find one another. But the audience is not told that right away and things got confusing.

At the beginning of the play the actors come out on stage and they act like they are there to play "Hamlet." But soon the audience figures out that it's all part of the play, and the evening got underway.

The acting was wonderful especially when each of the three main characters changed outfits to play other roles. A total of twelve characters were played.

It was an enjoyable play and very humorous. Once the confusing parts were explained to the audience everyone seemed to sit back and enjoy.

Dorm Life

"And I promise to write . . ." Bidding farewell to home cooking for a large part of the calendar year, many students moved into rooms in the nine residence halls on campus and adjusted to dorm life's advantages and disadvantages.

"Sometimes you can get sick of things, like the lack of privacy, the rules, and the food," claimed one resident. "But it's convenient to be right here on campus. Plus, you can always find somebody to make popcorn with or talk to or whatever." In addition, some dorms and even individual floors sponsored parties, discussions and movies to make the residents feel at home.

Bradley saw some changes in housing this year. With the closing of Lovelace Hall, freshman men were allowed in air-conditioned Geisert and Harper Halls. A higher student demand for single rooms opened many rooms of Heitz Hall as singles.

Superbowl XX

Pinning the New England Patriots against the Chicago Bears, Superbowl XX beat the odds and went against expectations as the Bears rolled over the Patriots 46-10. Beating the odds was the fact that William "Refrigerator" Perry made a touchdown. Going against expectations and disappointing quarterback Jim McMahon was the fact that Walter "Sweetness" Payton did not.

The first half of play showed negative yardage in the air and on the ground for the Patriots. Rusher Tony Collins led the Patriots in rushing with all of four yards. Overrunning the Dolphins for conference championship, Craig Jones gained only three feet against the Bears.

Stripping two fumbles from the Patriots won Richard Dent, defensive end for the Bears, Most Valuable Player for the Superbowl XX. Coach Mike Ditka and team proudly dedicated the victory to "Papa Bear" George Halas.

Challenger

On January 28, 1986 Americans gathered across the continent to proudly watch their nation take another step forward by launching the first school teacher into space. What followed was disbelief and despair as they watched the space shuttle CHALLENGER explode just seconds into its flight.

The flight, originally scheduled for the 20th, was postponed to the 25th because of a delay in COLUMBIA'S mission. Delay because of the weather moved the launch to the 26th and a maintenance problem moved the date again, moved the launch, once to the 27th, weather, once to the 28th.

The morning of the 28th was clear and blue. Some speculation on the safety of the launch after temperatures had fallen to 27° the night before caused one Rockwell engineer to urge a delay but NASA director Richard Smith was advised that there was little risk so the countdown continued.

Seventy-three seconds into its flight the space shuttle CHALLENGER exploded. Dead were Dick Scobee, commander of the shuttle, pilot Michael Smith, electrical engineer Judith Resnik, physicist Ronald McNair, electrical engineer Gregory Jarvis, and school teacher Christine McAuliffe. President Reagan expressed the nation's sorrow in his address to the union stating, "They slipped the surly bonds of earth to touch the face of God."

Later, crucial O rings used to seal each joint between the booster-rocket segments, were found to be problematic by the commission charged to investigate the explosion. Failure of the booster rocket's bottom joint is viewed as initiating the tragedy.

Less than a month after the explosion the commission asked that those personnel involved with the launch be excluded from further investigating teams stating that they have "found that the process (of decision making leading up to CHALLENGER'S launch) may have been flawed."

Chernobyle

Thirteen persons died and three hundred others were hospitalized after a nuclear reactor in Chernobyle, Russia suffered an explosion. The disaster began when an unexpected power surge occurred while the reactor was undergoing maintenance. The power surge was followed by a hydrogen blast and fire dispersing a cloud of radiation over the area. Thirty-six hours after the explosion the evacuation of 100,000 Soviet people was ordered.

Ground crews worked to seal off the 570° mass from the soil and the water below while helicopters daily dumped tons of sand, lead and baron onto the reactor in hopes of keeping the contamination from reaching the air. Plan Econ, a Washington research group estimated a cost of approximately $4.3 billion dollars in medical, agricultural and economic losses will arise from the disaster.

Rock Censorship

Capital Hill was the battleground for the controversial subject of record album censorship. The Parents' Music Resource Center (PMRC) attempted to persuade the record industry to establish a lyrics rating system similar to the rating system used for motion pictures.

Fifteen of the most suggestive rock albums were introduced to the Senate Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation. Frank Zappa, Dee Snider of Twisted Sister and John Denver made appearances in protest of lyric censorship. "It's the parents' concern," stated Zappa. "It's not the government's concern."

When it was over, twenty-four record companies — over eighty percent of the industry — agreed to place PG labels on all albums with lyrics promoting violence, sex, suicide, rape, and occult or drug abuse. It was not enough for the PMRC though, who stated that they will continue their fight until all their goals are met. These include printing questionable lyrics on albums and tapes, rating rock concerts for content and selling albums with objectionable covers separately or in plain brown wrappers.

In response, Stanley Gortikov, president of the Recording Industry Association of America, said that even the PG rating was "approached with trepidation" and anything further would be "an ad hoc first-stage form of censorship."

Philippines

Following a fifty-seven day election battle marked by vote buying, fraud, ballot theft and violence, Ferdinand Marcos announced himself president of the Philippines only to step down less than a month later. Ending a 20 year family rule, Corizon Aquino took over as Philippine president replacing the self-serving 1973 constitution with her provisional "Freedom Constitution."

Aquino is faced with a barrage of problems including a $26.2 million dollar foreign debt, a military threat of 16,000 communist insurgents, and a crippled political system caused by two decades of corruption.

Live Aid

"The Day The World Rocked" was the Rolling Stones' name for the event that raised over $40 million towards famine relief in drought-stricken Africa. Organized by Bob Geldof, leader of the Boomtown Rats and organizer of the all-star benefit single "Do They Know It's Christmas", the concert event featured over sixty rock stars playing to an audience of more than 1.5 billion.

Two stages, one in Philadelphia and the other in London, hosted the July 13th intercontinental extravaganza. Revenue included $10 million of television broadcast rights fees worldwide, $3 million from corporate sponsors, ticket sales of approximately $5.6 million, and merchandising efforts from the two stadiums of the benefit ran to $4 million reduced from the previously estimated $20 million.

Research of the countries needs led to the decision of allocating the revenue to long-term development aids such as purchasing water-drilling rigs to aid with irrigation, establishing various agricultural projects such as reforestation, the purchase of trailers and trucks for food and supply transportation, and medical aid.

Dartmouth

College students from the Dartmouth Community for Divestment constructed four ramshackle structures on the campus green to protest the college's $63 million dollar investment in companies doing business in South Africa. Dartmouth's president, David McLaughlin, immediately ordered the shanties removed then reversed his decision after reviewing their educational purpose. Two months later twelve conservative students destroyed the shanties with sledgehammers. The next morning protestors of the incident held a Sixties-style seige in the president's office which led to McLaughlin's cancellation of the following Friday's classes in order to conduct a teach-in on racism. The twelve students accused of destroying the shanties were suspended. Later eighteen other students were arrested for resisting the college's efforts to dismantle the shanties for good. The issue of divestment and apartheid faded into the background as students struggled with the immediate issues of racism and sexism on their campus.

Deflation Belt

Since 1981, a depression of raw material prices, real wages and land asset values has been gathering momentum and sweeping across Mid-America. Nebraska's land value has fallen 55%, oil prices have dropped two-thirds and most half of the nation's unionized workers have been subject to paycuts.

In the last year farmland values have fallen 15% and the population of rural areas has dropped from 30% in the 1920s to the present 10%. Borrowing power is at an all time low. Mining towns are becoming ghost towns as mines shut down and area business slacks off. Sunshine Mining Co. has watched silver value from its Idaho mine dive from the average $11 per oz. in 1983 to $5 per oz. in 1986.

This deflation belt, from the Rockies to the Mississippi and from the Gulf Coast to Canada, encompasses 20 odd contiguous states which are the primary suppliers of America's natural resources.

Farm Aid

On September 22, 1985, John Cougar Mellencamp, Willie Nelson, Neil Young, John Fogerty, Billy Joel, Bob Dylan, Tom Petty, Daryl Hall, Meryl Haggard, Johnny Cash and over forty other performers gathered in Champaign, Illinois for a 12 hour benefit for the American Farmers.

Developed out of a remark by Bob Dylan who stated at Live Aid, "Maybe they can take one or two million and use it to pay the mortgages on some of the farms." Farm Aid organizers Neil Young, Willie Nelson, and John Cougar Mellencamp set to work preparing for a concert event drawing approximately 80,000 fans and over $15 million. The proceeds will go to fund stop gap measures such as psychological counseling and legal aid for farmers.

AIDS in School

Thirteen year old Ryan White's parents are suing Western Middle School in Indiana claiming discrimination against their son. The seventh grade honor student is a hemophiliac who, during a blood transfusion, contracted acquired immunodeficiency syndrome (AIDS).

A growing concern for children with AIDS is at the center of conflict and confusion within school districts. Indiana, Connecticut, Florida, Texas and Los Angeles have set guidelines allowing AIDS carriers to attend school, but few are actually in classrooms.

The alarm among most parents is the fear that their child might be infected by a classmate. This fear is understandable yet not supported by medical evidence as casual person to person contact appears to pose no risk of infection. There are no known situations of an AIDS child infecting his parents or siblings.

The main issue is that AIDS victims have the right to a free public education just as any other individual. This duty can be discharged through home instruction though some educators feel that telephone hookups and tutors deny these children the full benefits involved in a public education. States Robert Mnookin of Stanford Law School, "I'm concerned that school boards are acting out of fear and prejudice rather than rational concerns for the welfare of children."

Titanic

After seventy-three years of being "lost at sea" the Titanic was discovered sitting nearly upright on the Atlantic floor. Found 13,000 feet below sea level, it is beautifully preserved after being shielded from the destructive elements of sunlight, algae, heat and parasites. Photographs of the sunken luxury liner show treasures such as corked bottles of wine, delicate china plates, and elegant luggage.

For some investigators the biggest thrill was the knowledge that their experimental, high-resolution sonar device worked. Deep-sea exploration can now expand on a larger scale providing more exact information on the contours of the ocean floor.

Presently, the thought of raising the 46,328 ton Titanic is both technologically and financially unthinkable.

Garrett Week

This year marked the ninth annual Romeo B. Garrett Week. Dr. Garrett who was a sociology professor in 1947, was the first black faculty member at Bradley. Sponsored by the Black Students Alliance and the Office of Minority Student Services, the week long events were a celebration of black culture.

The week began with the Garrett dinner on Monday, April 14th. Mary Dee, commentator for WGN Channel 9 News in Chicago was the guest speaker. Also that evening was the presentation of the Black Student Alliance Outstanding Senior Award which went this year to Charles Anderson.

The week continued with International Night Wednesday featuring the reggae band "Safari." "You Wear It Well" was the theme for Thursday's fashion show. Students modeled the latest styles donated by local area stores for the evening.

Saturday was Apollo Night and students got a chance to hear the unique music performed by the band, "Sex Appeal." Various students provided additional entertainment for the evening. Garry Moore, commentator for WEEK Channel 25 News was the Master of Ceremonies for the evening.

The Gospel Extravaganza on Sunday concluded this year's Garrett Week. The event featured Bradley's Gospel Choir in concert in Neumiller Chapel.

Dr. Joyce Brothers The Opposite Sex

In November, Betty Friedan, author of such books as The Feminine Mystique and The Second Stage, returned to her hometown and spoke to a large audience of Peorians and students. Ms. Friedan's lecture dealt with the "illusion of equality" in America today. She encouraged modern women to tackle the second stage of the feminist movement and make their needs known.

Dr. Joyce Brothers addressed a number of questions on male/female relationships in her March lecture. The psychologist and columnist spoke about the differences in behavior learned by males and females. Dr. Brothers also discussed romance, noting characteristics that tend to make up successful relationships.

Sigma Chi Kicks Off

Saturday, April 12 kicked off the Sigma Chi annual Derby Day events. The fun began with the kick-off party and continued throughout the week with each of the eight sororities competing in such events as sidewalk painting, banner hanging, a dance contest, and serenading. The sororities also participated in various games to accumulate points to win the three foot Sigma Chi paddle. Sorority girls chased Sigma Chis around campus to capture derbies as well as points. Pyramid building, as well as an egg toss and a three legged relay were also included in the games.

Representatives from each of the sororities competed for Derby Darling which was won by Laura Raerlier of Gamma Phi Beta. The overall winner for the week was Sigma Kappa.

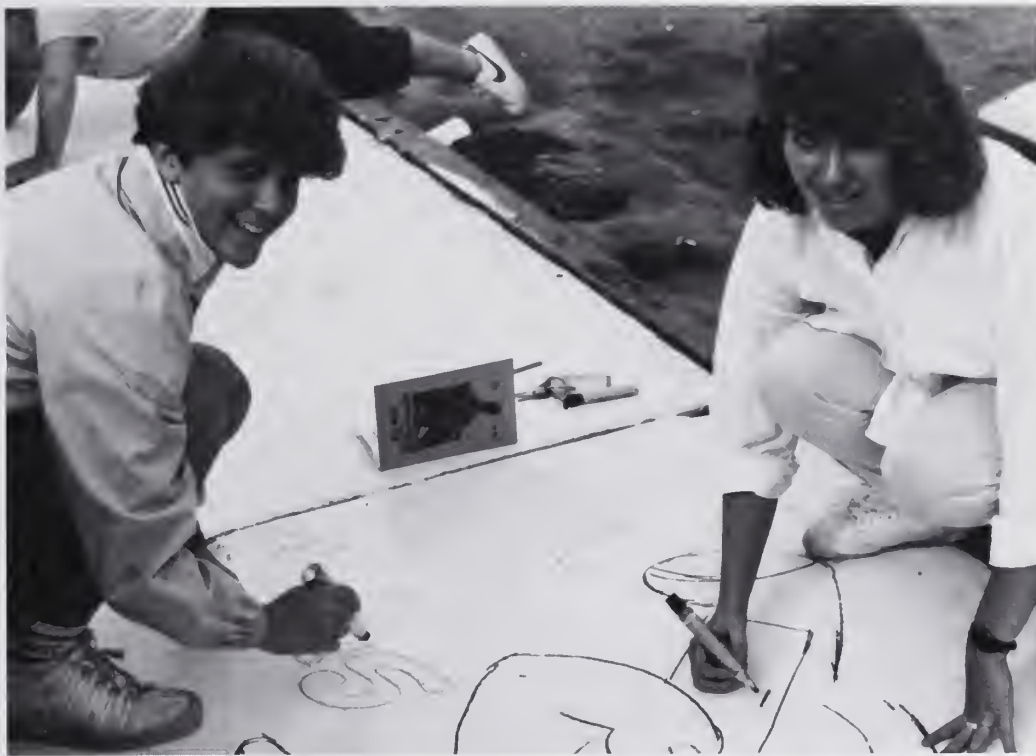

Derby Days is an international project of Sigma Chi Fraternity and all proceeds from this philanthropy go to The Wallace Village located in Broomfield, Colorado which aids retarded children. This year's Derby Days was planned by Paul McCann and Chris Teer, the 1986 co-chairmen.

Derby Days

In Honor Of Bradley Moms

Bradley welcomed over 400 parents to this year's Spring Parent's Weekend in honor of Bradley Moms. The events planned for the weekend included a reception where the visitors were invited to meet faculty members and listen to speeches given by Dr. Abegg and the president of the Parent's Association Board of Directors. A seafood buffet accompanied the reception.

Saturday's barbecue was a huge success and families took advantage of the pleasant weather by enjoying ACBU's outdoor Spring Arts Festival, "All's Fair At Bradley." Showcase exhibitions by art students and faculty members were on hand and the Bradley Gospel Choir, the Speech Team, Alpha Psi Omega, Sigma Alpha Iota, the Symphonic Winds, and the Merri-n-ettes put forth their efforts to fill the afternoon with entertainment. Later that evening the talent show, "After Dinner At Eight" was presented featuring comedian Eric Elver; known as the Funniest Man in Wisconsin, The Bradley Rock Combo, singer Cecilia Stone, and speech team member Eric Ruff.

Among the many mothers nominated for this year's Mom of the Year, Sherrie Iscaro's mother Connie was chosen. The Senior nursing major from Elgin nominated her mother because of her mom's involvement in both her career and her community and because of the special relationship they share.

The weekend came to a close with a Sunday brunch as students and parents said their goodbyes with promises of letters and phone calls.

South Padre Island Hot In Spring '86

Spring Break 1986

The thing to do this year for Spring Break was go South! A glance around campus on March 14 and students were seen piling into cars and busses to hit those south-bound interstates. The lucky ones were only on those interstates until they got to the airport. The rest of us, however, made the trek south with visions of sun, sandy beaches, tropical drinks and bronzed bodies filling our heads. And while Fall and Christmas Break are looked forward to, it is by no means of the same magnitude that students look forward to Spring Break . . .

Many made their own plans, but for those who didn't want the hassle ACBU stepped in once again. The Activities Council sponsored two trips this year. The most popular being to South Padre Island in Texas, and the other to Daytona, Florida. For night life in South Padre, many opted for Lauderdale's and for those in Daytona, 701 South seemed to be the place as well as the Oyster Pub. The days as well were bright and beautiful with sunny weather and yes . . . sandy beaches and bronzed bodies!

Delta Gamma's First Annual

Delta Gamma's first annual Anchor Splash was a great success on Bradley's campus this year. The newly chartered sorority raised about $1,300 for their nationwide fund raiser.

All proceeds went to blind and sight conservation programs. Half of the money went to the Peoria area and half was given to programs nationwide.

Out of 17 fraternities, 16 participated in the week long events. The week began with penny voting for the Anchorman contest which started on April 7th.

Activities continued with raffle ticket sales on Tuesday and banner day on Wednesday. Thursday was wear your letters day and Friday was the long awaited Anchor Splash Bash at the Lucky Lady. Finally, the Anchor Splash swimming events topped off the week on Saturday.

Sigma Nu fraternity won the swimming events by having the greatest number of points, and Alpha Kappa Psi raised the most money during the week.

A Special Christmas

Bradley's talented speech team put on a Christmas benefit not only for the audience, but also for alumnus Mitch Hatchet, who was paralyzed in an accident. The team occasionally has raised funds for this former speech team member. This project was organized by Kevin Manton and featured a number of performances with Christmas themes.

Right: Santa Claus couldn't make it, but John Hansen is happy to ask janitor Sam DeLause (Tom Doyle) about the washers in his sack.

Going on a Safari

In early November, the campus was treated to a reggae band called "Safari." Formed in 1984 as a tour band for international performers, the group now tours alone, and was sponsored here at Bradley by the West Indies Student Association. An audience of over 200 enjoyed their exotic sounds.

GDI Week Promotes

Getting residents that live in the dorms involved and organized is an important job. It takes a great deal of work because the dorms house so many different individuals all involved in their own lives on campus. The whole idea behind Bradley's annual GDI Week or Growth and Dorm Interaction Week is to promote interaction between the dorms.

The week of April 21st-27th marked this year's GDI Week presenting dorm students with a variety of activities in which to take part. A CPR clinic was held in conjunction with IDC and students had the opportunity to acquire their CPR certificates. A Hawaiian party, a Toga party, an ice cream social, and a computer dating program were just a few other events that highlighted the week.

The week proved to be successful in bringing together the unique individuals that are a part of life in the dorm system. Photos by Dave Hamernik.

My stereo is haunted by lonely ghosts.
They disapprove, mostly, of my taste in music.
They know a baby who has no father.
A clock ticks erratically over the crack on the wall,
the rush hour traffic of long ago rumbles to bright kitchens.
It is dark because it is winter.
One dog howls his woe.

Thank God for my unshuttered windows
look through gauze at tree branches, a sky that will not grow dark though there is no moon.

Kess

Like death she sleeps quietly waiting and ever watchful.

She doesn't move
nor does she make a sound
yet she is alert.

Silently she waits
to stalk to battle and to overcome.

She searches for the unwitting those who aren't aware of the price they soon must pay
For she will take all and leave only an empty shell.

Some feel they may win
yet the odds are rigged
She will seek them out and they will be hers.
Later, they will be left broken and drained.
They must pick up their lives and go on.

Yet, they will never be the same again
For Love has touched them and they will never quite forget
her cold hand
upon their shoulder.

A Change For The Better

Bradley's primary physical education/recreation facility underwent a few changes this year. Haussler Hall's renovations included hardwood floors for the racquetball courts and a new rubber surface for the main gym.

Haussler houses many athletics offices and facilities for varsity teams, indoor intramurals, and student use.

In taking over the courses of the former Physical Education Department, the intramurals office will be offering a more flexible schedule of non-credit classes. Greg Killoran, intramurals coordinator, also suggests the possibility of an expansion — the creation of accessible outdoor facilities for sports like softball.

BASKETBALL

The Bradley Braves had a fantastic season from start to finish this year and it's not over yet. They finished the regular season with a 29-1 record and went on to be the number one seed in the 10th Annual Missouri Valley Conference Tournament beating West Texas. They had another miracle victory beating Illinois State and went into the final game with the nations best record (31-1) and the highest winning percentage (.969). But they lost the MVC Tournament Title to Tulsa.

The Braves have played three seasons at the Civic Center in the Carver Arena and have won 34 out of 45 games. They first began to play at the Civic Center in 1982 and after two years the Bradley record stands at 34-11.

An excellent team needs an excellent coach and the Braves have the best. Missouri Valley Conference "Coach-of-the-Year" for 1986, Dick Versace has done an outstanding job at Bradley University.

Versace has lead the Braves to hold the longest winning streak in the country, with 22 straight games, and they're the only team in Division I which has only one loss.

The Braves have been equally impressive in the national polls: they were 8th in Sports Illustrated, 9th in the UPI coaches poll, 9th in the AP writers poll, 9th in CNN/USA Today's top 25, 10th in ESPN's top 20, and 14th in The Sporting News.

Winning streaks are something the Braves are now used to and they've earned every one of them. The Braves won 34 out of 37 games dating back to last season. They have won 16 straight home games, the longest streak in the Valley. They have won 13 straight games on opponents' courts and are 17-1 overall in games played outside of Peoria this season.

All this winning has allowed the Braves to become only the second Valley team, the 1978-79 Indiana State Sycamores were the first, to go through the conference season undefeated (16-0). Bradley University has won 18 straight regular season MVC games dating back to 1985.

The Braves have had a spectacular season — they have made Bradley a proud University.

NCAA

Tournament Action

"I knew this team would do something special, and they did." That's what Coach Dick Versace said about the Bradley Braves this year. They put the final touches on a spectacular season by making it to the second round of the NCAA Tournament.

The Braves went to Ogden, Utah to play in the NCAA West Regionals with a 31-2 record. They beat Texas-El Paso by 18 points for a score of 83-65. The team then went on to play an impressive game against Louisville in the NCAA's second round. The Braves held an even score for 35 minutes in that game, but Louisville surged ahead to win the game 82-68 to eventually become the national champions of the NCAA Tournament. Senior, Mike Williams described the outcome of the games with these words, "... When you play an NCAA Tournament, whoever plays the best on that day is the team that wins. We played our best, but they just wore us down."

For the season overall the Braves point total of 2,504 was the team's highest since 1954. Besides taking the Missouri Valley Conference championship, they also led the conference in three team categories - scoring, field goal percentage and scoring margin. Les, Trimpe and Hawkins each pulled "triples" with over 100 points, rebounds and assists this season. Hawkins also appeared ranked no lower than 11th in all seven MVC statistical categories. Williams' shooting percentage of .610 was Bradley's highest since 1968. Stunning individual records like these led to an exciting 32-3 season on the Hilltop and an invitation to the NCAA Tournament.

To sum it all up in the words of Dick Versace, "It was the most wonderful and enjoyable season I've ever known as a basketball coach. It was a season that will always be remembered by me as very, very special."

BASEBALL

At the start of the 1986 season, Coach Dewey Kalmer was sure that Bradley's pitching staff would carry the team. Unfortunately, two pitchers were injured, but the Braves offense came through. With 8 hitters averaging over .300, 16 school records were set, including most wins. At the crucial game, though, Southern Illinois slipped by Bradley and left the Braves to finish two games out of first place in the league.

Junior Tim Campbell broke the school's RBI record and tied with Brad Tilly, a sophomore, for a home run record of 13.

Men's and Women's Track

Cross Country

After his first year as head coach of the track and cross country teams, Craig Dahlquist is looking forward to the future. While the women's team didn't perform as well as all had hoped, they did improve their quality of competition. Disappointment also overshadowed the men's team, as they were hampered by injuries throughout the season.

In track and field, the men and women together set a total of 28 school records. "While some of the records were inevitable; we knew we'd make them, some were very good and surprising. It's a positive note indicating that Bradley track is making big steps to improve," said Dahlquist.

Some individual honors include:
Cross Country MVP - Rick Kruiswyk
Melinda Swank

Track MVP - Mark Oberle

Hockey

The Bradley hockey club's quest for a league championship was abruptly halted in sudden death overtime of the third game in the best of three game series with Drake University.

The team took second place in its first season in the Midwest Collegiate Hockey Association. "We could have finished higher, but we didn't realize how talented we were until the end of the season," said Co-captain Jim Banovitz.

The team was led on the ice by co-captains George Del Cotto, and Banovitz. Club President Kevin Schmaltz took care off all the administrative duties.

Next season the team will play in the Illinois Wisconsin Club Hockey league.

According to Banovitz, the object of the team will be to still have fun. "What is so great about playing at our level is that we can still play the game we've loved to play most of our lives and not jeopardize our school work.

The 1986 Bradley Braves golfing squad had another strong season, finishing 2nd by only 8 strokes in the MVC championships to a veteran Wichita State squad.

Led by senior veterans Jon Diggetts, Steve Douse, and Dave Witek, the Braves finished in the top five squads in every tourney they participated in, with the exception of the tough Purdue Invitational. Included along the way was a 2nd at the Palm Coast Invitational and 3rd place finishes at both the Beu Classic and the Millikin Big Blue Classic. Although the Braves will be losing four strong senior players, with five talented freshmen getting a year under their belts, the Braves will be a force to reckon with on the fairways.

A Team With A Future

In 1985-86, the Lady Braves Basketball team left their mark on the Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference as a team to be reckoned with and, in the future, to be feared. Coach Angela Beck insisted that this was Bradley's best season ever in Division I, and that they are moving up.

The Lady Braves ranked fourth in the conference with a record of 16 wins and 12 losses, or 11 and 7 in the GCAC. The #3 ranking, unfortunately, went to Illinois State in a double overtime. Other highlights of the season were competing in the prestigious Amana Classic at the University of Iowa and taking second place in Bradley's own Lady Braves Classic.

The year was full of individual records and improvements on the parts of all the team members. Senior Lea Ann Machias led the team on the count with her expertise and enthusiasm. The other four starters accompanying Machias were sophomores Kathleen Flanagan, Michelle Braud, Kimberly Harris, and Audrey DeClue. But there were no superstars; everyone scored, and the team learned and grew as a unit under Beck and Assistant Coach Terry Becker.

The Lady Braves saw the record-setting attendance of 930 at one game as a sign that women's basketball gained more recognition at Bradley this year. This rise in popularity came during a season when the young team took great strides forward and at a time when Beck felt they "are really only beginning."

VOLLEYBALL

The Lady Braves volleyball team had a memorable 1985 season, finishing with 32 wins and 10 losses, the best record in the team's history.

Coach Pam Stanek and trainer Sheryl Hemingway were proud of the team's many accomplishments. For instance, the Lady Braves were victorious in all five games on their out-of-conference trip. This season, they packed up and headed for Washington, D.C., to defeat teams such as Georgetown and the University of North Carolina.

Later, the players competed in the Gateway Conference Championship.

This was seen as an appropriate way to top off an excellent season, as Bradley's team played very competitively and only narrowly lost to Illinois State University.

Even at the outset of the season, the team's more experienced members felt optimistic and anticipated a year of hard work but well-deserved rewards. Their many hours of conditioning and training, which continued even after the end of the season, paid off. Other reasons for their success included better facilities and recruiting.

In addition, the team was made up of a number of outstanding individual players, among them senior Stacey

Besjak, the most valuable player, who was ranked ninth nationally in defensive digs. The best offensive player and best defensive player were Betsy Buckhold and Kathy Bickler, respectively. Volleyball players must all cooperate with one another, but Sharon Zaba was voted the best team player of them all. Finally, freshman Cheryl Christiansen had improved the most over the course of the season.

All in all, the Lady Braves had a great season, and hope to do even better in 1986.

For the second year in a row, the Lady Braves Softball Team finished second in the 10-team Gateway Conference. Coach Clint Wilson took the team to victory in the Illinois State Tournament, with the highest number of wins the team has ever accomplished. Standing out as highlights were five no-hitters and one perfect game against Ohio State in March.

Junior Beth Hawkins, a pitcher from Peoria, earned her second Gateway Conference MVP award. Leading the team in hitting was senior Lisa Cantor, a transfer student from Iowa State.

Northeastern Illinois .....	6-1 win

A year of improvement and progress ended in a 10-12 record for the Men's Tennis Team. Coached by John Moorhouse, the players competed in several close matches in which their defeats were 5 to 4. These matches, if won, would have drastically improved the season record.

This season saw the departure of three seniors, among them top player Juan Franco, Ken Shaw, and Brian Hiner. The younger members of the team have been learning and improving, and so the team as a whole expects to see some winning seasons in the future.

The Lady Braves' Tennis team ended their season with a 11-8 record only partially representing the amount of effort put forth this season. Bradley placed fifth in this year's Gateway Conference Championship with the talents of sophomore Cindy Schneider (#3 champion) and freshman Diane Nale (#6 consolation champion) shining through.

Singles records were headed by Cindy Schneider with a .850 percentage and Joie Rolf with a percentage of .682. Tiffany Ames and Joie Rolf headed the doubles records with a percentage of .583.

Cheerleaders

The Bradley Cheerleaders backed the Braves to victory at nearly every game this season. They even went all the way to the Missouri Valley Conference and the NCAA. Thanks to chartered planes, various money contributions and Bradley, the Rah Squad was able to get to those games and cheer the Braves on.

This year the squad compiled a video tape and sent it in to the United Cheerleaders Association to try and get into the College Cheerleading National Championship held in San Diego, California. The squad placed eighth in their division.

Gregg Neal, coach of the squad for fifteen years at Bradley, worked with co-captains Tim Ryan and Eileen O'Sadnick and the rest of the group three days a week for three hours, getting the routines perfected. All their work paid off, producing an excellent squad this year.

Bradley University's intramurals is a diverse program that gives people the chance to exercise, participate in their favorite sport and meet new people. Intramurals are open to everyone and all are encouraged to participate in the competitive fun. Fall and Winter Intramurals include volleyball, football, softball, racquetball, basketball, table tennis, and quite a few others. Usually each sport is divided into three classes, A, B, and C. But this year classes were combined due to a decrease in participants.

Who said this wasn't a contact sport? This player takes a tumble diving for the volleyball.

Business Administration

When most people think of Bradley, images of basketball and engineering come to mind. But, one should not overlook the excellent programs offered by the College of Business Administration.

Of Bradley's student body, 799 of them are enrolled in the College of Business Administration. Of the six majors offered, most students endeavor to obtain their degree in Business Management. Rounding out the field of curriculum are Accounting, Economics, Finance, Marketing and Business Computer Systems.

Each year, many Bradley students vie for work in the Co-op program. Students from the College of Business Administration are no exception. This year, 38 students from the college are getting a taste of the real working world via the Co-op experience. Acting Dean Antone F. Alber commented, "I think the students get a tremendous amount of achievement . . . out of it." He also stated, "It gives them a chance to really get a sense of what the work environment is that they've chosen to make their career."

Bradley's College of Business Administration has had many prestigious graduates over the years. Thomas Wagner (1960) is the Ford Motor Corporation's Vice President, General Manager of the Lincoln-Mercury division. Thomas Elsey (1975) went on to receive his M.A. from Carnegie-Mellon University and has since worked for The Congressional Budget Office. He is presently Deputy Budget Director for the City of Chicago.

There are twelve student organizations affiliated with the College of Business Administration at Bradley. They all provide leadership opportunities, but one, the Student Advisory Committee, meets with the Dean to provide input into the college itself. A few select students are inducted into Beta Gamma Sigma each year. Beta Gamma Sigma is the College of Business Administration's honor society. To be eligible, you must be a senior in the top 10% of your class or a junior in the top 5% of your class.

The College of Business Administration at Bradley has been accredited by the American Assembly of the Collegiate Schools of Business. The College of Business Administration is only one of 54 out of 1,200 schools nationwide to be accredited on all scholastic levels.

BAKER HALL COLLEGE OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Recently, on the second floor of Baker Hall, a new micro-computer facility was installed. The college hopes to add more to it in the future. The facility enhances the department and will provide Bradley's students with better opportunities.

The office of Dean is being held by Dr. Antone F. Alber. Normally, Dr. Alber is the college's Associate Dean, but he is presently the Acting Dean of the College of Business Administration.

Dr. Alber received his B.A. in Mathematics from Lehigh University, his M.B.A. from the University of Pittsburgh and his Ph.D. from Pennsylvania State University in the field of Operational Management.

Dr. Alber is doing an excellent job as the Acting Dean of the Department. He is upholding the college's high standards in the absence of Dean Sims, who is presently working at Memphis State University.

Communication and Fine Arts

The College of Communications and Fine Arts excelled in the past year. The college strove to improve the quality of education offered to the students. Approximately 500 students are enrolled in the College majoring in Art, Journalism, Mass Communications, Speech Communications, Music, and Theatre Arts.

Academically, some 50 revisions were made in the Communications division. New faculty members meant achieving interrelations with one another for the success as a unit. A new change was adding paid professionals to the Bradley Community. One of the musical faculty members is not only a teacher to students, but in addition, a Concert Master with the Peoria Symphony. Dean Weinburg reasoned that involvement with professionals provides students with good training. Another change was the decision to start construction on a new art facility. Authorities spent the end of the year in intensive planning and bidding stages for the new building, the Hauser Art Facility.

Although only 10% of the entire University belongs to the College of Communications and Fine Arts, about 50% of all of the students who participate in the extracurricular activities of this college major in other colleges throughout the University. The Bradley Speech Team was once again acclaimed one of the best teams in the nation. The Bradley Chorale went on tour to Denver, Colorado over spring break. Students are also involved in art exhibits, music concerts, and theatrical productions.

Bradley's College of Communications and Fine Arts, the performance college, will continue to expand as it continues to meet the needs of its students. Not only is the quality of education offered to the students important, but in addition, so is teaching students what it takes to make it in the world of performance.

Education and Health Sciences

The College of Education and Health Sciences was busy throughout the year making strides and expanding its distinctive programs for its 647 students majoring in Early Childhood Education, Elementary Education, Special Education, Home Economics, and Nursing.

The Education division makes its coursework of utter importance by stressing strong knowledge with laboratory practice of professional skills through practical field-based experiences. Students get their field experience at schools and community health centers.

The Health Science division solely consists of Nursing due to a change made by the Strategic Planning Committee to diminish the division of Speech and Hearing Sciences. The division of Nursing provides a program of academic course work and practicum at community hospitals and nursing homes to prepare students for professional employment.

According to Dean Sattler, the College of Education and Health Sciences has entered into a time of positive change. The Division of Nursing is proud to offer the only down state program in nursing. A Masters Degree is now available to those nursing students who desire one.

A new area of emphasis for the college was in that of counseling. The College of Student Personnel trains students for counseling positions in the areas of professional staff such as administration and financial aid. The use of microcomputers was integrated into all coursework within the college.

Tomorrow's professionals will be prepared by the College of Education and Health Sciences thanks to the quality programming and instruction provided. Photos by: Dave Hamernik.

College of Engineering and Technology

There are approximately 1,200 students enrolled in the College of Engineering and Technology at Bradley University. The students pursue many different careers from a wide variety of majors which the college offers. The majors comprise of Industrial, Mechanical, Manufacturing, Electrical and Civil Engineering, two Technology programs and Construction. Of the curriculum, the largest enrollment is in the Electrical Engineering program.

Besides the regular requirements that must be met by a student wishing to go to Bradley, students that wish to enter the College of Engineering and Technology must have an A.C.T. composite score of 24 or better. The average score of students entering the program is a 26. Even before college starts, hopeful engineers have their work cut out for them.

Roughly fifteen percent of Bradley engineers enter the Co-op program. Dean William R. Wells, who has been associated with Co-op programs throughout his career stated, "I personally feel that it is most beneficial." Bradley students may work for such astute firms as Texas Instruments, John Deere, Boeing, General Dynamics or even the Highway Department.

Students may expand their professional development as well as their leadership skills through many of the student organizations for engineers on campus. Each department within the college has organizations which the students may join.

Bradley has many exceptional engineering students. Many of them typically win national scholarships for graduate school. For the past few years, the Industrial Engineering department has won the Best Industrial Engineering Students Award in national competition. Some select students may be honored by Tau Beta Pi, the engineering honor society.

One of the biggest changes in Bradley's engineering program was the installment two years ago of what is one of the nation's few undergraduate Manufacturing Engineering programs. Everyone in the department is anxiously awaiting the day when the first student graduates.

At this point in time the college is debating over a pending change. Bradley is thinking of merging the Civil Engineering program with the Construction program and making them into one department.

Two years ago the college went through a change in the office of Dean. It was filled by William R. Wells. Dr. Wells received his B.S. in Aerospace Engineering from Georgia Tech, his M.S. in Aerospace Engineering from Virginia Polytechnical Institute, his M.A. in Applied Mathematics from Harvard and his Ph.D. in Aerospace Engineering from Virginia Polytechnical Institute.

Dr. Wells served as Associate and Assistant Professor at the University of Cincinnati for nine years. Ready for a change, he left the University of Cincinnati and went to Wright State University in Dayton, Ohio, where he was chairman of the engineering department. In his eight years there, he built the program up from twelve faculty members into the present College of Engineering.

He left Wright State University two years ago and came to Peoria. Here, he was appointed Dean of the College of Engineering and Technology. Photos by: Dave Hamernik

Liberal Arts and Sciences

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences is not only enrolled by 793 students, but it also accomplishes several major functions. Programs leading to degrees in over 20 areas of study are offered. In addition, the college functions as a service unit for other colleges offering specialized professional curricula.

The various areas of study fall into three main groupings: humanities, social sciences, and sciences. Practically every student is somehow touched by the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences because most of the general education courses are close to half of the courses offered by the college.

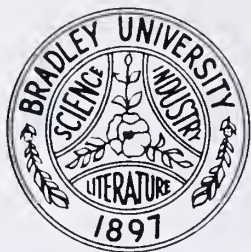

According to Dean Kele, teaching is given the highest priority within the college because of the great rapport that professors and students share. The faculty of the college consists of 100 members who strive to produce well rounded and intellectually sensitive students.

A sound background in Liberal Arts and Sciences creates reservoirs that students can always draw back on. The preservation of meaningfulness and the preparation of life experiences are among the goals of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

Sigma Delta Tau

The 1986 members of Sigma Delta Tau. Founded on November 20, 1962. Presently, there are 63 members.

Theta Chi

"Strength through brotherhood" is a precept held high by the members of Theta Chi Fraternity. The 1985-86 school year reflected the dedication that the brothers of Theta Chi have to each other and the University.

In the fall, Theta Chi held its thirty-sixth annual "Go to Hell Party" for formal — a party which can only be experienced. The brothers also found time for a weekend hayride and a food drive at Thanksgiving to help the needy in the area.

While eagerly participating in every intramural sport offered, the members of Theta Chi managed to maintain an extremely respectable grade point average. The fall pledge class had the second highest G.P.A.

With the spring came a sweep of Homecoming Spirit Week, a successful Queen of Hearts Philanthropy, and several popular "after hours" parties for Theta Chi. Through strong and supportive brotherhood, the men of Theta Chi are able to accomplish high goals and bring recognition and respect to themselves, the fraternity, and Bradley University.

Sigma Nu

The Sigma Nu tradition began at Bradley University in 1955 and has grown to be an integral part of this campus ever since. It is a Fraternity that offers more than a social outlet because it thrives in all aspects of Greek and Campus life. Its members have developed in themselves a sense of pride which exemplifies the high ideals of honor and brotherhood which make Sigma Nu different from other fraternities.

The competitiveness and one-hundred percent participation has been the characteristics which make this house a dominant force in Interfraternity athletics. Although we thrive on athletic competition we also have developed a scholarship program which is second to none. Placing grades as the number one priority has allowed our house to consistently be among the top three finishers in overall Greek G.P.A. and number one when compared to larger houses. This past spring our scholarship program was enhanced by a monetary scholarship donated by several of our alumni to provide additional financial support to a Junior member who has exhibited the ideals of Sigma Nu and has demonstrated involvement in both campus and fraternity life.

Along with our strong foundation in athletics and education, we have also proven to have a very successful philanthropy program which in the past several semesters has worked in conjunction with the Big Brother-Big Sister Program. Our carefully planned social program offers members a variety of activities including campus parties, exchanges, walk-outs, and formals. Our White Rose formal, which is the only black tie formal on campus, comes at the end of each spring semester. In all aspects, Sigma Nu has proven itself by developing its members into successful gentlemen ready to tackle each new obstacle with a rare blend of fun and excitement.

Bradley Bands

The Bradley University Band program has a lot to offer to anyone with an interest in music. The 65-member Symphonic Winds, 20-member Jazz Band, Basketball Band and various smaller ensembles are made up of both non-music majors and music majors. In fact, the majority of the students are pursuing degrees in engineering, biology, computer science, business, journalism, etc. However, they all share a special feeling for music and enjoy the chance to continue playing during their college years.

The Winds are under the direction of David Vroman, who is new to Bradley this year. They prepare programs of exciting, challenging music that range from snappy, well-known marches to more dramatic, recently-written overtures. They can be heard several times a year at their formal concerts, performing for Parents' Weekend, and at area high schools. In early April the Winds and the Jazz Band went on a three-day tour of southern Illinois. While the primary purpose was to perform at high schools and encourage students to continue playing, they also had time to visit St. Louis, hold the 1st annual band banquet, and attend a dress rehearsal of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra.

The Basketball Band is made up of members from the Winds. They perform in the Peoria Civic Center for the men's basketball games and this year accompanied the team to Utah for the NCAA Tournament.

The Jazz Band, under the direction of Paul Wichterman, performs several campus and community concerts a year. Their music selection is both lively, energetic and mellow, thoughtful. It often provides opportunities for students to solo and improvise.

Indeed, the Bradley Band program not only provides several fantastic opportunities for students, it also provides great entertainment for the campus and community.

PSALM 23

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want, In verdant pastures he gives me repose; Beside restful water He leads me; He refreshes my soul. He guides me in right paths for His name's sake. Even though I walk in the dark valley I fear no evil; for you are at my side with your rod and your staff that give me courage. You spread the table before me in the sight of my foes; You anoint my head with oil; my cup overflows; only goodness and kindness follow me all the days of my life; and I shall dwell in the house of the Lord for years to come.

May the Peace of Jesus Christ reign in your heart forever.

The Smiles Say It All...

"Schools Out!"

"When are you leaving?"

"Monday, right after my 12:00 final."

"Ha, gotcha! I'm out'a here today! The car's loaded and Chicago's calling my name!"

Conversations like this were heard everywhere around campus from the 8th to the 14th when May finally found its way to Bradley. Sure, destinations varied from New York to Iran, yet the feelings were the same; strained nerves from finals, frustration in how to fit it all in the car, sadness when hugging those friends goodbye, dread of starting that summer job, and anticipation for home and family.

The smiles and the tears said it all as all knew that they were one year older, and one year wiser, and one year closer to their goal. Those who graduated felt the pressures subside with the joy of being done knowing that soon a new way of life would begin for them. And the smiles on the faces of the parents, the families, and the friends were the only congratulations they needed.

It was a year of laughter and tears, concerns and controversies, goals and accomplishments, and growth and maturity. It's just another year at Bradley — that we will never quite forget . . .

It's finally over!

The deadlines, the office hours, the copy sheets, and the cash flow can all be forgotten, until next year. The dedication and the hard work have produced a set of memories that we, the University, and the student body will treasure for a lifetime.

It marks the smiles, the laughter, the tears, and the action that Bradley experienced during 1986. It shows the progress, the issues, and the news events that touched us all. It gives us the year that we can look upon any time we feel the need to turn back the page.

The staff of this year's Anaga was outstanding! Their outgoing personalities combined to make my job enjoyably interesting, proving to me that putting together a college yearbook can be fun, even if it is exhausting.

They've worked hard; sacrificing their time for what, often times, seems like little reward. For providing fresh insight and unwarranted initiative to support their belief that it really is "worth it all" and for showing that they are the best at writing copy, taking photographs, drawing layouts, and managing the books prompts me to give them all my heartfelt thanks. I couldn't have done it without ya.

Appreciation can not be expressed enough to Cam Ratcliff who has supported the tradition of the Anaga from the very beginning and who believed in my ability to carry it onward, to SABRC who showed their belief by allocating us full funding for Anaga '87, to Swords for aiding our sales pursuit, and to the faculty, staff and student body for supporting an 85 year Bradley tradition.

Pride, spirit, enthusiasm - It's been one of those years . . .

Alice L. Hawk
Editor-in-Chief
Anaga '86
